

First 9 Weeks Update

And just like that the first 9 weeks have come and gone, and in 9 more school weeks the first semester will be gone. It has been a pleasure getting to know the students here Sequoyah Middle School. In Current Events, students have been able to look up their own articles that interest them to read about and summarize. Also, with the Presidential race, it has been interesting to learn about the process of the two candidates. Sadly, we have also followed the stories of the hurricanes and their effects. Continuing on for the next nine weeks we shall see how this Presidential race goes while also finding other topics that interest each student. U.S. History has begun learning how our country started out with the 13 colonies and how everything began to evolve, along with the Presidential race and watching how it unfolds for this year's election. Which shall tie in good for the next 9 school weeks learning about how our Independence and first President of the United States began.